What this Case is about

One or two sentences stating, in plain language, what is being proposed and why the General Assembly is being asked to decide it now.

Background

The situation that led to the proposal: what problem it solves, what changed, or what the Association has been doing informally that this Case would formalise.

What the proposal does

What changes in practice if the proposal is adopted, stated as concretely as possible. Where the proposal has several distinct effects, list each as its own point:

First effect.

Second effect.

What does not change

Anything a reader might otherwise assume is affected, but is not: existing rights, existing structures, or existing documents that remain as they are.

Why the C-suite recommends this

The reasoning behind the C-suite's deliberation on the Case Paper, in more depth than the Case Paper's own C-suite deliberation field allows.

Sources and further reading

Cross-references to the Bylaws, prior decisions, or other documents in the set that a member would need to check the proposal independently.
